The Military Ball Attracts Large Crowd

The Y.M.C.A. hall was well filled for the youth and beauty of Redcliff for the military ball put on by the Y.M.C.A. of the local company last Friday evening. On arrival of the guests, the guests were agreeably surprised and pleased with the decorations arranged by display about the hall. The hall was by the local company coupled a conspicuous place at the front of the hall. The hall was much admired by all present. Unfortunately Col. Brennan, being ill, could not be present and officially present the shield to the company.
The music furnished by the band and other musicians was of such a quality that could be desired and throughout the evening everything went with a few that assured success. The guests were served in the hall, and all had to leave at a late hour. The hall could not be too comfortable and service, however, it was of the service, which was very appreciative and handled by the committee in charge.
On the whole the evening was a great success and reflected credit on the ability and energy of the N.C.O.s and their lady assistants.

A Canadian View Of The Solution To The Problem Of The Allied War Debt

In view of the necessity of finding a solution to the problem of the Allied debts, the appended letter from a prominent Canadian financier has special value. Darnell Harsh in a letter to Senator Darnell, discussed the matter, and made important constructive suggestions, which Mr. Mackenzie would further develop.

"Dear Mr. Harsh: Canadians have noted with satisfaction the broadened views expressed in your widely published letter. We in the Dominion have no direct interest in the Allied debts. We are united by common friendship, both in the Mother Country and to our neighbor-land, and can, we think, view the matter impartially. May I briefly discuss the case?"

You frankly agree that such portions of the Allied loans as were expended for munitions and other fighting purposes, were used for the benefit of all, and that the debts may fairly be reduced to this extent.

When your country declared war you took your place beside the Allies to prosecute the struggle as a joint enterprise. You required over a year for preparation, and during that time the Allies gave to the cause one million lives, besides billions of their money. You could not but have been, but you did help financially. The claim now that you were only lending while they were giving is contrary to all ideas of co-operation and justice, that it will not stand even a moment's investigation. Where your dollars worth more than their lives?

During the whole war in actually killed, France lost 1,500,000; the United States, 400,000; Canada, 52,000. In lives there was no equality of sacrifice; must there also be no equality in finance?

I need not dwell further on these points, for you already have allowed for military purposes should be deducted from the so-called debts. Coming from the head of the Finance Commission which made the advances, this declaration should carry great weight with the American people. Its general acceptance would be a first step towards a fair solution.

You hold, however, that the Allies should not be strictly military should be repaid. You also hold that the United States has counter-claims. Among non-military items you list food for Britain's civilian population. This food, purchased at inflated prices, was sold much below cost; the proceeds were at once applied to strictly military purposes. Was it not all therefore a war expenditure?

You also suggest that Britain should have transported American troops without charge. The American soldiers were private property, and their owners had to be reimbursed. Why should Britain pay for the cost of the war? They were transporting American troops? American railways were likely under Government control. Should they have carried the troops charge the munitions purchased by the Allies? Britain, of course, gladly furnished the naval equipment that conveyed the transports.

You make out a better case for an other point. Any amount paid to J. P. Morgan & Co. to cover an overdraft of the British Government on April 6th, 1917, is in a different category, as it represents expenditures before the United States became one of the associates.

But there is another point. Your advances were limited to covering purchases in the United States, which incidentally benefited your own people, practically the only exception being for Russia. No other nation imposed such a restriction. Was this quite in harmony with full co-operation, and with the wealth and dignity of your country? If a limitation were rightly wisely had been taken, and the restriction had not been imposed, Britain would not have had to continue to finance the domestic requirements of her Allies, and would today owe your Government nothing, for she would have paid for her own American purchases in cash. If it then be comes of no importance for what purpose the money was used, and even the Morgan over-draft drops out of sight.

There is still another point. Those monies did not leave the United States. They were expended in purchases there at war-time prices. An American writer writes that since from the wealth which this brought to individuals, the United States Government itself received back in income tax.

profits and other taxes over $2,000,000,000, reducing the actual advance by that amount. Should this be ignored? I heartily agree that if there is to be any just settlement all points must be carefully considered, and among these points I would include the question, whether these debts should be repaid by the United States would have borne a reasonable share of the burdens, particularly for the first year, and also the effect of the limitation of your advances. My own impression is that the maximum amount, if any, which an Imperial Commission would award as due by Britain, would be the Morgan overdraft of $100,000,000.

Mr. Hoover says that the Allies can pay these debts. This has no bearing on the question whether the money is really owing. That a man pays a claim does not prove that the claim is just.

The war record of the United States from the time of her entry was a worthy one. Though she could not at once supply men, she did at once take an effective part financially, and whenever money did arrive they were the admiration of the world. Those who now say that your advances were mere loans would pluck from the brow of your country her crown of glory, and reduce her to a vassal state, participating, during every first year, to a mere money lender, making loans, the justice of which, the rest of the world does not admit.

I know and admire the American people, and am sure that when they understand the facts, they will find that their financial war record should be made worthy of their glorious military record."—J. B. Mackay, President, Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

Rates will be reduced in the major part of Alberta from seven and eight per cent. to six per cent. for the remaining parts of the province, carrying rates of seven and nine per cent. The Manitoba rate is unchanged.
Rates in Alberta and Saskatchewan, explained Mr. Campbell, "the ball during this past year was not as severe as in previous seasons, but the underwriting experience of the year was not sufficient to counteract the unusually severe losses incurred last year."

A Wireless Record
White Star Line's Marconi Sent 100 Words a Minute
Radio messages were sent by automatic machinery at a rate of between 80 and 100 words a minute by the White Star Line's Marconi station at Chatham, Mass.

The rate is about four times as fast as on ordinary operators' code and receives it, while the greatest speed is made by the most expert senders is only a little over 30 words a minute.

The speed is nearly as fast as that at which messages can be sent by wire, and may open a vast new field for usefulness.

It was at midnight. In the darkened doorway of a department store near 42nd Street I saw a man flinching uncertainly in the shadow. He thought it was 6 o'clock in the morning. I walked to the door leading to the little apartment. "Will you not the door to her room?" he said. ### Typed Radio Messages

Wireless Tests Made With "Teletype" Have Been Successful

Flying naval airplanes will soon be sending their messages to land or ship stations in typewritten form.

This remarkable achievement in radio development has just been announced by the Navy Department. It is an actual achievement, fully tested and found of great importance in the communication between aircraft and their stations.

The apparatus that makes this form of radio transmission possible consists of a machine similar to the commercial typewriter, connected by electricity to a radio transmitting or receiving set. Each key of the typewriter is connected to the radio apparatus in the airplane.

When a letter is struck a radio impulse is flashed from the airplane to the airplane to the receiving station below. On the receiving end is a similar instrument, which reproduces the message in typewritten form on a tape.

The instrument has been named the "teletype." It has been in use for the last eight years in connection with land wire telegraphy. But this is the first time it has been applied to the air. First tests were made at the naval air station at Annapolis, D.C.

Enormous National Wealth Of Canada Makes Attractive Appeal To The Keen Investor

Canada is flooded annually with a stream of American visitors, scores of whom come up across the border during the months of summer and fall to holiday in the Dominion, to know on the wild scenery of Canada, to recreate in the expansive and primitive national parks. Scores of others are attracted by the pleads of game and the excellence of the hunting the country furnishes. All summer and fall these transients have been in evidence in every section of the country, on the railways and the motor roads, and for the first time in the year constituted such a volume considered comparatively as to leave the distinct feeling of their national characteristics upon the country.

But the journey on Canadian railways will encounter at all times of the year still another kind of visitor, a visitor of a more numerous and less obvious, a quiet, modest, unassuming man, saying little. He asks intelligently, looks keenly, and obviously, thinks a great deal. He has the aspect of one genuinely seeking information, and his impressions are deeper than scenery and beauty impart. He wants to know many things about the country and is not infrequently prone to make cautious statements of the ignorance of their native land. He is the American business man seeking a well-earned rest and respite from his neighbors, yet bent on making his leisure profitable and educating himself further. Knowing his own country, he desires to study that of his nearest neighbors at first hand.

It is not only distinctly illuminating and instructive for a Canadian to get into conversation with such an individual, but a positive tonic to one who, in his own personal trials and tribulations, has lost a little hearted confidence in his Dominion.

The medical benefit of a country is the outlook. He hails from a country which has had the same troubles and passed through exactly the same stages of development. With his keen business acumen he can readily compare, gauge the economic position of the country, and fairly accurately determine immediate prospects.

This class of men is not naturally made nor made up of a certain class, but a few minutes' conversation with such a traveler, making his first trip to Canada, will disclose the fact that he is absolutely surprised and astounded with all he is seeing and hearing, and that he will come away with a wealth and extent of the country's natural resources and at the stage of development the country has already attained. A single train journey across Canada has educated him in the real status of the Dominion and the place it occupies among the countries of the universe. After all, in matters of economy, the American is a student of progress, and statistics, though on lightning, have not the force of actual personal visiting.

Such interest in Canada is quite comprehensible, for the Dominion is becoming an increasing extent, a developing, the progress, American dream. Many of these men have investments in Canada or are contemplating investments in the safety of such money, or determine the wisdom of carrying out their interests. In the proximity of the two countries, the American business man has a distinct advantage over the British, and this is the reason why they have been subjected to a multitude of lies. It is an easy matter for them to first meet out the ground and later to reveal a close supervision.

THE HANNA BRANCH

Now that strenuous and concerted efforts are being made to have suitable facilities for handling grain at Vancouver installed and since prospects are good for having this accomplished, this would be a good time for all concerned to put forth renewed efforts to have the Hanna branch of the Canadian National completed. The situation at present furnishes good grounds for pushing the claim to have this line built.

If shipping facilities via the Vancouver route are improved and developed, one essential will be feeders for the main lines east and west, and these feeders can best be supplied by lines running in a northerly direction from the southern part of this province.

The new directors of the Canadian National have stated that the building of branch lines will be given their serious consideration in the near future. No doubt they realize the necessity of feeders for their main lines now in existence. With the number of industries now in existence in this part of the province, together with the handling of the crops in the district covered by the proposed branch line, it would appear which would off the Hanna branch would only supply much needed railway facilities but would also be a paying proposition. Let all get behind it and boost for its completion.

CONTINUANCE ASSURED.

The great success of the baby clinic held last Thursday is surely a guarantee that this important movement will be continued much to the delight and benefit of parents and children of the town and district.

Citizens of the community are extremely fortunate in having as our local doctor one who is showing such an interest in this movement as is Dr. Patterson, and there is no doubt they will continue to avail themselves of this splendid opportunity to have their children under school age examined periodically.

The clinic last Thursday was largely attended. So much so that it was impossible to examine all the children present during the afternoon. However arrangements were made whereby Dr. Patterson agreed to examine them the following morning.

The next clinic will be held next month, the exact date of which will be published later.

THE GREAT ESTIMATE.

We reprint the following from the Fraser Valley Record: "The two things in life most sought after, the two greatest temporal blessings, are health and money. Much as a ruler, a vet and money and the health of guards money carefully and conversely not too little. When we consider the thousand doors that lead to death, it is indeed marvellous how long a man lasts. When we dwell on the truth that money has value, it is remarkable that so many folks are able to keep so much of it away."

Being able to drive 200 yards on the golf links, to tramp over the brown earth and make the course in a reasonable number of strokes, is worth more to a man than to sit in a wheel chair and cut coupons from Victory bonds. But you will never, never believe this until you get into a wheel-chair.

We once heard a cancer man who was dying of cancer say, "I would gladly change places with the street sweeper or the garbage man if I could only be rid of this thing that is sapping my life away." Poor fellow, he had worked hard all his life and made his fortune, but when the time came to enjoy it, he suffered and died.

There is a lot of cold-nosed treachery in the saying, "Health is more than money." Most active minded, intelligent men do not fully appreciate this fact, and go on wasting their health, grubbing for money.

Being able to run a hundred yards in twelve seconds, being able to swim, shoot, play short-stop, being able to box a little and to whistle a lot, having a strong physique, is rather to be chosen than the largest safest deposit box ever welded. Suffering from pain, and all the comforts that cash can buy would be exchanged for the guarantee of good health.

SUMMER TILLAGE.

So successful were the results obtained with summer tillage in Montana last year, that the Montana Development association has decided to push the campaign again this year. The report of the association, just published, shows that in some instances yields as high as 47 bushels to the acre were noted.

For example, results on the Elmer Davis farm in Stillwater county, for which full returns were received, afford a basis of comparison which is characteristic of the entire survey. Davis seeded 98 acres. Twelve acres of spring plowing yielded 18 bushels to the acre; six acres of fall plowing yielded 18 bushels to the acre; 56a cres of stubble yielded eight bushels to the acre; 23 acres of tillage showed an average yield of 40 bushels to the acre.

Summer tillage is just another name for early summer fallow. It is something farmers in Alberta, as well as in Montana and other semi-arid states, must come to. In Montana, the Development association placed the state with large posters telling the farmers in a few pointed sentences what to do and how to do it. These posters started the farmer in the face on every turn. The campaign caught on, and the improvement in methods has had a telling effect the first year of the better-farming drive.

A similar drive on this side of the border would not be out of order.

Grazing Areas are Open for Homesteads

The federal land office in Calgary is in receipt of new instructions from Ottawa which will allow prospective homesteaders to take up land not used as grazing areas. The new ruling applies to "B" land, from range 16 to range 45, or from just south of Nanton to just north of Red Deer.

In this district, particularly along the western edge, there is considerable amount of Dominion government land which has been posted as fit for grazing only. If a settler finds a quarter section of such land which he believes can be cultivated, he may apply to the land office in the usual manner.

Will Enlarge Elevator Capacity at Coast

Enlargement of the government grain elevator at Vancouver to approximately twice its present capacity, during the coming year, was announced by Mr. J. M. King, Dominion minister of public works.

Dr. King stated that the elevator at present was able to accommodate 1,500,000 bushels of grain, and the enlargement planned would provide facilities for storing after from 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 additional bushels during the season just passed the elevator has been large enough to meet all demands made upon it, any surplus having been stored in the cargo space in vessels using Vancouver as their port.

Railway News

Montreal.—Automobile accidents are still continuing at Vancouver crossings despite all the efforts of the railway to prevent them. One instance at Holland Centre, Ontario, an automobile was run over and stopped on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The driver, who was unable to stop the engine with the result that the automobile was smashed and three occupants of the car were injured.

A motor accident with all the thrills of a movie stunt, took place at the corner of Yonge and King streets, Toronto, when an automobile charged into one of the King street windows of the Canadian Pacific Building, making a mess that sounded as though the gas tank had exploded.

The car, according to the police, was coming north on Yonge street. The driver was seen to swerve to the right in his flight against a bell which was ringing and he continued to swerve right across the crossing into the engine of the front of the imposing C. P. R. office building. Here, with a loud crash, the engine, the motor, and the driver plunged into the front wheels of the train, making a pile of wreckage. Being up against an immovable obstacle it naturally came to a standstill.

One was hurt. The fender of the car was badly smashed on the right front tire torn off and the rear wheel badly damaged. The window was broken right across the whole twelve feet or so, and to a height of about six feet in some places. The driver admitted that he was nervous at the time; he hadn't the slightest idea of what was happening.

New Laid.—The work of constructing the northern extension of the C. P. R. from Kipawa to Des Moines is progressing in a good way, and already the grading has been completed on 35 miles of the line, with 19 miles of rails having been laid.

The present contract, held by Angus & Taylor of North Bay, calls for the construction of 70 miles of track, the northern and terminating part of the line of Des Moines to the greatest extent of the waterfalls in the Province of Quebec lying adjacent to the gold-mining fields of Ontario. It has also called that the C. P. R. has also carried survey work far into the new territory to the north.

Meese Jay.—The subway at the Canadian Pacific Railway station is about to be put into commission. All six passenger tracks in the new section terminal are in operation, the first four tracks are in operation. The work of completing the subway is in full swing. The stairways are in place and the interior of the subway is lined with the handsome glazed tile.

When the subway is put into commission the general public will not be permitted on the stairs platform. The tickets will be inspected at the doors leading from the waiting rooms to the subway. Passengers alighting from trains will descend the stairs to the subway platform and pass up the stairs into the depot.

The completion of the subway will finish the building programme undertaken by the company three years ago.

Meese Jay.—Out of a total of 44,817 cars of grain loaded at country elevators on the Canadian Pacific line in the three prairie provinces, between September 1 and October 14, 22,500 cars were loaded in the Saskatchewan district.

The total quantity of grain shipped on the Canadian Pacific line up until October 14th was 52,219,486 bushels, or an average of 1,634 bushels per car.

Some idea of the enormous increase in the quantity of grain handled this year, up until October 14, as compared with the amount handled in the same period in 1918 and 1921, can be obtained from the figures following:

Bushels Cars Bushels
Year Shipped Loaded. Marketed
1918—42,000,000 52,219 48,000,000
1921—57,870,000 51,544 52,781,271
1922—52,219,486 44,817 44,958,194

St. John, N.B.—On the Shore Line division of the C. P. R. the laying of heavy rails is being continued from St. Stephen towards St. John, and it is expected that the heavy rail will be completed to Pennfield before the very cold weather sets in.

Canadian council of agriculture that that body undertake the necessary arrangements.

The convention did not undertake to say when such a gathering should be held, how it should be constituted, nor whether it should deal with all subjects, or if politics should be excluded. It was pointed out that the resolution was not inconsistent with the tentative action taken by the Progressive group of parliament at their Winnipeg conference looking toward a national convention.
